

9-YEAR-OLD SON OF RICH LUMBER KING KIDNAPED

Government Agents Aiding Tacoma Police Search for "Snatch" Gang

BULLETIN

Tacoma, Wash., May 25—(AP)—Belief that eastern gangsters kidnaped George Weyerhaeuser, 9, son of a wealthy lumber family and demanded $200,000 within five days for his safe return, was expressed today as the Department of Justice rushed many agents here to aid in the search.

Fifteen Department of Justice agents arrived here and more were reported on their way in efforts to find the scion of the rich timber family of Washington and Minnesota.

United States Marshal A. J. Chitty at Seattle said he believed eastern gangsters had engineered the kidnaping.

"This looks like a big league job," Chitty said. "There was talk at first that it was done locally, but we've assumed now that 'outsiders,' some 'big shot' gangsters from the east maybe, are mixed up in it."

Ad Not Inserted

The ransom note, it was learned, apparently demanded an answer be placed in the want ad column of a Tacoma newspaper and police officials here prepared a reply, but at the request of Department of Justice agents the ad was not inserted.

Innumerable hideouts were available for the kidnapers among the wooded and little populated islands of Puget Sound, the wilds of the Olympic peninsula or farther north across the Canadian line.

The missing youth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Weyerhaeuser, Jr., who came here two years ago from Idaho. The lad was born in Lewiston, Idaho. The senior Weyerhaeuser's wealth was estimated at $20,000,000 by Tacoma acquaintances while that of his son was placed at $5,000,000.

Tacoma, Wash., May 25—(AP)—A note demanding $200,000 for the return of the missing George Weyerhaeuser, 9-year-old son of the million dollar timber family, has been delivered to his parents, reliable sources said today.

These same sources, which refused to be quoted directly, said the note threatened death to the lad should the police or the press be notified.

The resources of the Department of Justice were thrown into the search for the lad. Four operatives arrived from Portland, employees at the Tacoma airport said, while W. K. Bowling, agent stationed at Seattle, also was here.

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Bureau of Investigation in Washington, said agents were working on the case.

Dropped From Sight
Meanwhile, an intensive search was being made throughout the city for the boy, who dropped from sight while returning home for lunch yesterday noon from the Lowell school.

Authorities indicated their refusal to comment was based on the fear the boy's life might be endangered if they interfered.

Hoover refused to say directly there had been a kidnaping. He indicated, however, official silence was demanded by undisclosed details of the disappearance.

"Beyond that I can say nothing at this time," the chief of the Bureau of Investigation said.

First Notification

First revelation of the boy's disappearance came late last night from Charles Ingram, assistant manager of the Weyerhaeuser (pronounced Wire-Houser) Timber Company. He refused to confirm or deny the family had received a ransom note.

The boy's mother was reported prostrated and the father, vice-president of the Weyerhaeuser Timber Company, was grief-stricken.

It was believed the reported ransom note was delivered to the Weyerhaeuser home, one of Washington state's residential show places, at 6:15 P. M. yesterday.

At that time a group of George's schoolmates and other friends said they saw a special delivery post-office motorcycle messenger call at the mansion. The messenger refused to answer when asked what his mission to the home had been.

Familial Prostrated

The Weyerhaeuser family came from St. Paul in 1914 and has been active in development of the timber and lumber industry since the start of the century. Another son of the late founder of the company, Frederick K. Weyerhaeuser, lives in St. Paul.

The family here was in seclusion throughout the night. Mrs. Weyerhaeuser was reported near collapse. George's father, already deeply grieved by the death of his father, May 16, was reported by associates

Looks for Soldiers

Washington, May 25—(AP)—Latest to charge that the recent trip of farmers to Washington was sponsored by the AAA is Senator Hastings, (R-Del.), but he drew a flat denial from Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Hastings told the senate yesterday he had evidence federal money had been employed indirectly to pay the way of the farmers, who came to support the AAA.

"I wouldn't be surprised if within a week we didn't have the soldiers marching on Washington," said Hastings. He suggested the farmers' lobby by "started a new kind of thing that makes minorities more dangerous and powerful than ever."

Wallace, in answer, said neither county production control association funds nor any other government funds were used to finance the farmers' visit.

INGALLS SEEKS AMELIA'S MARK

Noted Woman Pilot Took Air This Morn for a Cross-Nation Hop

Los Angeles, May 25—(AP)—Laura Ingalls, noted woman pilot, hopped away from Union air terminal at Burbank early today on her second attempt to shatter Amelia Earhart's transcontinental speed record.

She was determined to send her new $40,000 black "mystery ship" over the 2,447 mile route from here to New York in less than 17 hours, 7 minutes and 30 seconds—the time set by Amelia in the summer of 1932.

She took off at 4:47 A. M. (6:47 CST), waved goodbye to field attendants who had helped service her ship, putting 580 gallons of gasoline into its tanks. She was dressed in dark corduroy trousers, a tight-fitting blue wool jacket and a perky beret. She was supplied with her usual nourishment—hot coffee, orange juice, buttered bread and nuts.

Had Some Trouble

Miss Ingalls, who was forced down by a dust storm near Alamogordo, Colo., on her first attempt last month, said she probably would follow the mid-continent route, flying over Colorado Springs, Omaha, Chicago, Cleveland and on to Floyd Bennett field at New York.

"I hope to do it in less than 15 hours," she said. She encountered a little difficulty getting her heavily loaded ship off the ground before reaching the end of the runway. Fog was just beginning to roll in from the coast and her plane disappeared for a moment in a fog bank. Reappearing from the northwest, however, she gained altitude quickly, circled the field and headed east. A moment later she disappeared from sight.

Miss Ingalls' plane is capable of 225 miles top speed, 205 cruising speed and sustained flight over a 4,000-mile route with a capacity load of 650 gallons of gasoline.

A new type radio and automatic pilot device, performing triple service as a pilot, weather report receiver and compass, makes Miss Ingalls' powerful plane one of the best equipped ships in the air.

William Lawson Little is Given Tough Battle by British Doctor in Finals for Title, But Wins

St. Anne's-on-the-Sea, Eng., May 25—(AP)—Standing off a great closing challenge by Dr. William Tweddell, former champion, Little on Little, Jr., of San Francisco today captured the British amateur golf championship, one up, in the 36-hole final match. Little thus became the first American and the third man to win the title two straight years.

The 24-year-old Californian, who won the title on his first bid for it last year at Prestwick where he overwhelmed Jim Wallace 14 and 13, led the 38-year-old British medico three up at the halfway mark and then was seized with a bad attack of the jitters while his rival shot steady golf and his advantage was wiped out on the 30th hole.

Little regained his poise sufficiently to win two of the next three holes and marched to the 34th hole off his deficit as he almost holed out spectacularly from a trap for a birdie three but won

DAYLIGHT TIME IN DIXON ASKED

Council Takes Petition Submitted Last Eve, Under Advisement

An appeal to the Dixon city council to inaugurate day light savings time in this city was expressed in a petition bearing the signatures of 140 business and professional representatives, read to the city commission members last evening. Mrs. Henry Abt, who sponsored the movement, spoke in behalf of the plan to provide one hour more of day light to those engaged in various lines of business in Dixon. A representative of the Brown Shoe Co. plant was also present in behalf of the movement.

The council was requested to draft an ordinance providing for the daylight saving plan. Members of the council will discuss the plausibility of such a plan and will doubtless act upon the petition at the meeting next Friday evening. Signers of the petition requested that the change become effective June 1 or as soon thereafter as possible and continue through the summer months until Sept. 30.

A resolution was adopted for the appropriation of $8,000 from the motor fuel tax refund to the city to be expended in the improvement of Fifth street from Highland to Dement avenues. Previous improvement plans were rescinded and the new action taken which provides that the construction be under the supervision of the street department and progress only as funds are available. It was quite certain that the entire project could not be completed this year, but it is expected that operations will begin within a short time on Fifth street at Galena avenue, the two blocks between Galena and Peoria avenues being the first to be improved.

Let Garbage Contract

The contract for the removal of garbage, cans and ashes from the city, which the new council awards, instead of hiring, attracted a total of 18 bids which were opened last evening John O. Nelson, who submitted a bid of $2,765.00 was awarded the contract. The other bidders and the amounts of their bids were as follows: Frank Kempf, $3,000; Selover & Son, $2,980.00.

Two Indicted for Chain Letter Activity Today

St. Paul, Minn., May 25—(AP)—Three indictments growing out of chain letter operations were returned by a federal grand jury today. Two of the indictments are against Edward C. Johnson, Preston, Minn., high school teacher. One charges mail fraud and the other operation of a mail lottery. The third charge is against Royce A. Neander, Minneapolis postal employee, accused of stealing dollars from letters.

AMBOY DOCTOR'S BROTHER KILLED

Lt. W. H. Holladay, Army Aviator, and Companion Die in Crash

Dr. W. T. Holladay of Amboy late yesterday received the shocking news of the death of his younger brother, Lieut. Wendell T. Holladay of the United States Army, in an airplane crash near Heaven, Oklahoma. Lieut. Holladay, 26 years of age, and Private Ira B. Hicks of Brooks Field, Texas, crashed in an observation plane last Sunday and their charred and mangled bodies were found early yesterday in the trees of a mountain canyon west of Heaven. Dr. and Mrs. Holladay left Amboy last evening for the home of his mother, Mrs. Emily Holladay, in Indianapolis, Iowa, where the remains were to be shipped for burial.

Discovery of the wreckage yesterday ended a search in which 50 army airplanes had participated since the flyers were reported missing, en route from San Antonio, Texas, to Barksdale Field, Shreveport, La., via Muskogee, Okla. Youths of the Pine Valley CCC camp toiled through the rugged Kiamichi hills to the spot where the flyers crashed in their observation plane Sunday, and took the bodies to Heaven.

Wiley Morgan, a farmer, reported he saw the crumpled plane from the top of a bluff. One body was on the ground nearby. The other, a foot sticking out, was in the plane. At almost the same time army pilots winging overhead discovered the wreckage of the plane but reported that they could not effect a landing near it. CCC workers started for the scene Wednesday night. Capt. E. Sullivan of Hatbox field, Muskogee, after learning the condition of the bodies ordered them not to be removed until Thursday morning.

Crash Cause Unknown.
The flyers left Muskogee after refueling last Sunday morning. That was the last heard from them until the wreck was discovered and the cause of the crash was unknown. Holladay, survivor of minor air accidents, was a native of Indianapolis, Iowa, and his companion's home was Siloam Springs, Ark.

Lieut. Holladay stopped at the Dixon Airport during the holiday season last winter, accompanied by another aviator, the two flying from Fort Des Moines, Ia., to Chicago. He spent about two hours here visiting with his brother, Dr. Holladay of Amboy. On that occasion Lieut. Holladay experienced some difficulty in locating the Dixon airport.

Fred Brown, who resides on the River road west of Dixon, observed the plane circling low over Rock river several times and reported the incident to the Telegraph office. He succeeded in signalling the flyers, directing them eastward to the airport.

Timothy Murphy Simply Refuses to Amend Ways

East St. Louis, Ill., May 25—(AP)—Timothy Murphy, 42, of Chicago, out on parole from the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, today was on his way back to that institution to serve three years.

"Will you ever learn?" Federal Judge Fred L. Wham asked him yesterday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of impersonating a federal officer. First sentence of six years imposed at Chicago in 1929 was for a similar offense.

Both times he admitted he impersonated a prohibition agent and permitted himself to be bribed. The first time in Chicago he accepted $1,500; the second time in Danville the sum was $120. He got that from a woman whose husband, a bootlegger, was in jail.

Congress Has Bill Giving City of Dixon Permission to Build Street- Wide Concrete Galena Ave. Bridge

One of the first official acts undertaken by Mayor William V. Slothower following his induction into office, was a movement toward the erection of a new street-wide bridge across Rock river on Galena Avenue, which forms the right-of-way of two federal highways and two state highways. Word was received by Mayor Slothower today announcing the introduction of a bill in the House of Representatives at Washington, D. C., by Congressman Leo E. Allen, known as House Bill 8164, providing for such an improvement. Congressman Allen presented the bill which has been referred to the committee on interstate and foreign commerce.

Mayor Slothower's plan is to secure construction of a street-wide concrete bridge on Galena Avenue at the expense to be shared jointly by the federal government and the state of Illinois, and at no cost to the city, through a bond issue, under which plan the Peoria Avenue bridge was constructed. The sum necessary for the construction of the bridge would be derived from the federal fund allotted for the elimination of grade crossings and construction of bridges on federal highways, and the state highway department.

Little Kept Promise

San Francisco, May 25—(AP)—W. Lawson Little, Jr., who won the British amateur gold championship at St. Anne's-on-the-Sea today, kept faith with his dad.

"Why my boy asked me if he could play in the British amateur this year," Col. W. Lawson Little remarked, after hearing of his son's 1-up victory over Dr. William Tweddell in the final, "I told him he could go—if he'd win. Well, he kept his promise all right."

Col. Little, who with Mrs. Little maintained a vigil in a local newspaper office as results of the match were received, declared he was "overjoyed."

"That's fine," exclaimed Edie Twigg, professional at Stanford course and the youth's former instructor.

STATE'S RELIEF AGENTS RESUME

Distribution of Federal Allotment of Five Millions Began Friday

Chicago, May 25—(AP)—Relief for 1,200,000 dependents in Illinois was in full swing again today after a month of uncertainty.

The allocation of $5,000,000 of Federal funds for the purpose by Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins yesterday made resumption of help for the jobless and their families possible on a normal scale.

Hopkins announced the Federal grant at Cleveland, O., yesterday after a brief conference with Governor Henry Horner, who immediately set the state's relief machinery in motion by a telegram to headquarters here.

Hopkins further made it known that the government would continue to bear the state's relief burden until July 1, when the raising of funds will be on a normal basis with the state contributing $3,000,000 a month raised through the sales tax increase.

Checks Distributed.
Before Horner returned to Chicago last night the distribution of food checks to the needy was begun in all of the state's 102 counties by order of Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Relief Commission. The commission and its branches, using the skeleton staff retained after relief stations had been closed, acted to speed the mailing of checks until the full staff is recalled.

The governor called a conference for today with Robert J. Dunham, commission chairman, and other relief officials to discuss details of using the $5,000,000 grant, which was intended to meet the state's needs to the end of May.

Bills Accumulated.
Because of the emergency manner in which relief was handled after the Federal government discontinued allotments to Illinois April 30 numerous bills for rent and utilities service to relief clients piled up. This was one of the matters the conference was expected to discuss.

Allocation of the $5,000,000 to counties was arranged with notification of the grant, Reynolds announced, because the commission's audit department had previously taken it up. Cook county, with 150,000 families on relief, was assigned $3,100,000, while the other 101 counties divided $1,700,000. The remaining $200,000 was reserved for special purposes.

BOMBING UNEXPLAINED.

Washington, D. C., May 25—(AP)—A bomb placed between the street car tracks of Forest boulevard exploded last night, blasting a large hole in the street. Officials and police were unable to explain the bombing.

CLEANUP DRIVE LAUNCHED TODAY BY CO. SHERIFF

Miller Out to Rid Whole County of All Forms of Gambling Devices

BULLETIN

Commissioner Cal G. Tyler of the department of public health and safety conferred with Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber shortly before noon today, after which a drive against all illegal gambling devices was opened in Dixon. The drive is in conjunction with one being waged by Sheriff Miller throughout the county this afternoon in ordering out all gambling devices not protected by the temporary injunction from the circuit court which prevents all officials from interfering in any way with machines owned by the Mills Novelty Co., of Chicago. The drive centered largely against a new type of device, known as the "put-and-take" game, which has appeared in large numbers throughout the county during the past ten days.

Sheriff Ward Miller this afternoon started a drive to rid Lee county, outside of Dixon, of all gambling devices which are not protected by the temporary injunction out of the circuit court, and places where slot machines, punch board or gambling devices of any kind were found were given final warning.

None of the machines were seized, the sheriff ordering that they be "turned to the wall immediately." In instances where proprietors owned the machines, the order was given for their immediate discontinuance and where the equipment is owned by an agent, proprietors were told to cease all operations, notify the owners, and not permit the machines or devices to reappear.

Monday afternoon was the deadline named by Sheriff Miller for the discontinuance of all forms of gambling devices not protected by the court injunction. Any of the machines found in the county Monday afternoon will be confiscated and destroyed, Sheriff Miller warned.

Warnings Ignored

The county is again flooded with slot machines, punch boards and gambling devices of every kind and description," the sheriff stated before starting on the cleanup drive. "Previous warnings appear to have been forgotten or disregarded and the county is to be cleared of all these devices without further delay. Proprietors of places housing these machines will be given until Monday afternoon to dispose of them, after that time I will seize and destroy every one of them. I have previously voiced my stand on these gambling devices which are built and intended for no other purpose, and I am going to stand by my former order."

"They may be called games of skill, put-and-take, or any other name, but they still remain gambling devices and Lee county is to be rid of them once and for all. If today's warning is disregarded I will haul every machine or device I find in the county to the county jail Monday and destroy it."

The sheriff added that he had received numerous reports of the appearance of gambling devices from all parts of the county, and in several instances machine have been stolen. Some places have been robbed during the night and many have not reported any further reports or complaints, the order was given in person by the sheriff to the proprietors.

Sheriff Inspected Jail First Thing This Morn

Carlinville, Ill., May 25—(AP)—The first thing Sheriff A. S. Henry did on awakening this morning was to see that the Macoupin county jail was still intact.

Elmer Mullane and Herbert Kennedy were arrested in Edwardsville yesterday afternoon and brought here, charged with destruction of property in connection with damages done to the Bunker Hill jail when they escaped and were overtaken a few hours later.

TIMES CHANGE

By Joseph Fort Newton

"MY WORLD is gone," writes an elderly reader, "and I know well enough that it will not come back. It was a quaint, quiet little world, a bit narrow perhaps, but we felt happy and at home in it."

"A foolish if not a stupid world, it may be said. Only too likely; but it had one advantage over the present world—it was foolish rather than anemic. It was red rather than a pale pink."

"Nay, more, it was white and black, rather than drab grey like the world of today, in which people are so bored that they want to get out of it. We found color in life, and something worth living for."

"One could look at my world, see it, seize it, wrestle with it. My individuality had a chance to survive; we were human beings, not cogs in some whirling machine, or colored shirts in a silly parade."

"No doubt we were awfully inhibited, and there were some things we did not talk about in the drawing room. We knew about the fact of sex, but we did not make it the all-end-all of life."

"If we were short on psychology at least we were not so self-obsessed, always looking at the wheels inside of us. What we did not know did not hurt us as it seems to tear people to pieces today."

"Besides, we believed something; our faith may have been robust and pungent—it was not merely insipid and sickly as it is today, when nothing is certain but uncertainty, and folks are afraid of shadows."

"The world today is dying of jaundice and pale faith, and rubbing on the paint and powder an inch thick does not hide the fact that a puppet is not a man but a stuffed shirt, a thing of straw and sawdust."

"At any rate, people were definite in my world; they knew what they wanted, or what they thought they ought to want. The main prop of human life was not physical pleasure and comfort, as it is today."

"Of course, I am just an old fogey, belated and out of date, a kind of hang-over, if not a relic. But the facts show that not all change is progress, and if the world has gained it has also lost much."

Barrymores' Log

Los Angeles, May 25—(AP)—The next move in the puzzling game of hearts played by John Barrymore, the roving actor, appeared to rest today with his wife, Dolores Costello Barrymore.

Viewed in nautical terms somewhat appropriate to the plot, the log of the troubled Barrymore marital ship found:

The handsome 52-year-old actor at sea, bound with a party of friends for Havana aboard his yacht.

The beautiful Dolores, who once sailed the briny deep with her husband, land-bound with her two children in her new home here.

Attorneys for the two resuming clam-like silence.

Added to this, a cryptic, barefaced legal notice remained in print in a court publication today.

It was brief but significant enough to lend confirmation to previous indications that the Barrymores' wedded affairs were headed for the rocks. It read:

"Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will not be responsible for any debts or liabilities contracted by any person other than self, on or after this date, May 3, 1935. (Signed) John Barrymore."

The actor's Los Angeles attorney, Col. William H. Neblett, shown the notice, admitted attempts were being made with Mrs. Barrymore's counsel to reach a property settlement agreement, but declared Barrymore did not intend to sue for divorce.

"Of course," Colonel Neblett added, "we have no way of telling what Mrs. Barrymore will do."

Hollywood film friends of the famous couple sought to learn today "what Mrs. Barrymore will do," but Mrs. Barrymore remained in strict seclusion.

The May 3 date mentioned in Barrymore's "not responsible" notice recalled that it was just prior to this that Mrs. Barrymore suddenly moved bag and baggage to her present home, deserting the hilltop home John built for her after they were married six years ago.

The schools of Bloomington dismissed the pupils and students for this event. A beautifully carved memorial stone bench, bearing the inscription, "In memory of our fathers, the Grand Army of the Republic," was donated to the city of Bloomington by the convention delegates. Mrs. Violet McConnell, department commander made the presentation address. The 1936 encampment was voted to be held at Moline.

5 tablespoons fat
1-2 cup milk

Mix dry ingredients. Add milk slowly, when soft dough forms, pat out and fit over top rhubarb. Make 4 holes in top. Bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Unmold rhubarb side up. Serve warm or cold.

Boxed or homemade sugar cookies, rolled, make a good "crust" to hold cream or fruit fillings. For a more fancy dessert, spread with whipped cream when served. This, of course, adds calories.

Fresh fruit salads are delectable at this season. Strawberries add both flavor and color and they blend well with pineapple and bananas.

INCONSISTENCIES

Of Nature's inconsistencies, I think that far from last Are cold winds shaking apple blossoms
And snow on green grass.

And furnace fires roaring
On the fifth day of May.
And robins shivering in their nests
Trying to keep the cold away.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

There is nothing better for a man, than that he should eat and drink, and that he should make his soul enjoy good in his labor.—Ecclesiastes 2:24.

God has so made the mind of man that a peculiar deliciousness resides in the fruits of personal industry.—Wilberforce.

PICTURE SHOW HERE TUESDAY: SAFETY DRIVE

Two hours of excellent entertainment, headed by a full-length talking picture, played by well known figures of the talkies and speaking stage will be presented free to the public of Dixon Tuesday, May 28.

The showing, sponsored by Anderson Tire & Battery Shop dealer for The B. F. Goodrich Company located at 106 River Street will be staked in the Schuler Hall. Hour of performance will be at 7:30 P. M.

Topping the free show, for which tickets are now being distributed by the sponsors will be a smashing big-time drama, "The Highway Patrol" depicting the part these modern vigilantes of the road play in suppressing crime and preventing accidents. A gripping love story is intertwined in the drama, together with a generous measure of comedy relief, which relieves the tension of the audience at spots where the picture's action reaches some high climaxes.

In addition, Harry Langdon will be starred in a regular feature comedy "Love, Honor and Obey—The Law." An interesting newsreel, containing one of the most unusual "stop motion" spectacles ever filmed, complete the show.

In connection with the comedy the sponsors are staging a unique contest with valuable merchandise as prizes. During the course of the comedy, Harry Langdon, the star, violates 12 to 17 tragic regulations.

Blanks will be distributed listing 32 traffic rules and the person or persons who sees the greatest number of violations in the film will be rewarded for powers of observation and knowledge of traffic regulations.

List of the prize winners will be announced as soon after the show as possible. Prizes are now being displayed in the storerooms of the show's sponsors.

Airlines are required to furnish their planes with sufficient oil and fuel to fly 45 minutes in addition to the time necessary for the flight to the next scheduled stop.

If aligning tests show worn parts which permit wheels to wobble, they should be repaired, even at the cost of a new bearing, or new king-pins and bushings.

Announcing.... A New Discovery in the Science of Healing

It is customary and fair that the man of science announces through the medium of the press every important discovery. In consideration of this custom I announce that a new and wonderful system of Spinal and Structural Therapy has been discovered, developed and perfected. A Science of Drugless Healing that embodies a structure of indisputable facts, and positive results.

This New Discovery comprises the science of Pain-Control, via the Cerebral Spinal Nerve System, without the aid of narcotizing drugs.

The Pain-Control is instantaneous, and is accomplished by a Specific Double Hand-Contact—Completed Circuit—and Vibrational Stimulus.

BURIED, BUT VERY LIVE, IS NEUTRALITY ISSUE
The things that are getting most of Congress' attention these days are such up-to-the-minute measures as the holding company bill, the Wagner bill, the bonus, and the banking bill.

Buried 'way down underneath, however, is a proposal which might ultimately be of greater importance to the country than any of these.

This is the movement—led chiefly by Senators Gerald Nye and Bennett Clark—to recast American neutrality policies in such a way as to keep us from being drawn into the whirlpool of another European war.

These senators have introduced three resolutions to attain that end. Their resolutions would bar any kind of loans, public or private, to any foreign nation at war or any firm within that nation; would prohibit granting of passports to American citizens wishing to travel in war zones; and would provide that any shipment of munitions or contraband from these shores would be made strictly at the buyer's risk.

The idea back of all this, of course, is the eminently sensible one that the way to stay out of a fight is to stay entirely away from it. The innocent bystander might not get beamed with a brick so often, if he had the sense to refrain from standing on the sidelines and yelling encouragement to one of the combatants.

So far, this program has remained buried beneath the press of measures of more immediate concern. But European peace today is in a precarious state, and no one knows just when it may dissolve.

Once a European war breaks out, it would be infinitely more difficult to put such a program through than it is now. We ought to have action on the matter before this session of Congress ends.

To get such action, it may be necessary to squelch some of our high naval officials. Rodney Dutcher reported recently that the navy bigwigs are heartily against these proposals.

It is their notion that the navy can protect American commerce under any and all conditions, and they are lobbying earnestly to preserve the status quo—under which, in 1917, we got into a war we might well have stayed out of.

Someone should remind these gold-braided gentlemen that the function of military men in a republic is to obey orders and not to make policy. It is up to Congress and the president to decide what is to be done; for the army or navy to try to interfere with such decisions is militarism of the worst kind.

That aside, there seems to be no very good reason why this program should not be adopted. There is no question that the American people want to stay out of war. The Nye-Clark resolutions ought to do much to help them attain their wish.

LET US NOT BE MISLED BY A MARKET BOOM

There is a rumbling noise in the stock markets these days, and it all sounds very much like the machinery of an old-fashioned boom picking up speed to swing into high. And that, in turn, leads one to wonder if we could be on the verge of repeating the joy ride which ended up against a safety zone stanchion in October, 1929.

A stock market boom in itself need not do much harm to anyone who has the good sense to keep his fingers away from the hot end of the poker. It is only if we begin to look on stock quotations as the one great sign of national prosperity, and assume that a bubbling stock market is prosperity itself, that the joy ride will really be under way.

That was what we did back in the glamorous twenties.

The stock market was our answer to everything, in those days. If anybody suggested that technological unemployment was becoming a grave problem, that our agriculture was critically ill, that our foreign trade was being erected on a basis of borrowed money, that we were losing sight of all human values in our race for riches—well, the one big answer to everything was that stock prices were 'way up and that anyone who didn't like it would best go back to Moscow, where he came from.

We can repeat that program if we choose. All ingredients for a stock market boom seem to be at hand—including the cheerful presence of Major Angus.

But we might as well remember that on our last joy ride we not only wrecked the automobile, but came un-comfortably close to breaking our own necks.

The danger lies in the chance that we may again mistake a rising stock market for an end in itself rather than a symptom.

A rising market does not bring prosperity. Prosperity brings a rising market. To put our chief energies into stimulation of market values would be to reach for the shadow and ignore the substance.

It would be like the janitor of the country schoolhouse who suggested that on cold days the thermometer be tied to the stovepipe, so that it would register suitably high temperatures.

If a high temperature in the thermometer is all we want, we can have it. If we have the good sense to demand that the room itself be comfortably warm, the thermometer readings will take care of themselves.

In other words—if stock prices are going up, fine and dandy; that must indicate a regaining of business health and confidence.

So long as we don't drop everything and rush off to lash the thermometer to the stovepipe, everything will be all right.

THE TINYMITIES

(READ THE STORY THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The gnome who said he'd save the day cried, "All you tots bring sticks this way. If I'm to pry that big rock loose, I'll need a lot, no doubt."
"Some sticks will break before it's done. I'm sure that I'll need more than one, so pile them high, you tots, to help me work this problem out."
The Tinnies dashed all around and shortly many sticks were found. Wee Duncy brought a tiny one, which made the whole bunch roar.
One gnome exclaimed, "That's just like you. You know that stick will break in two. If that's the best that you can do, don't help us any more."
"Ah, that's just fine," said Dun-

McReynolds Defeats Martin in a Fast Boxing Program Here Friday Eve

Large Crowd Packed Airport Hangar To See Good Bouts

Batting Averages of Big Leaguers Yield to Pitchers

Elwood McReynolds, Chicago Golden Gloves champion, was awarded a decision over Johnny Martin, Peoria fighter, in the five round feature bout of an attractive boxing program at the Airport hangar Friday night.

McReynolds had difficulty reaching his opponent for any damaging punches, and was frequently tied up in the clinches. In the first round Martin threatened to reverse the tables by launching a quick, savage attack the last few seconds before the gong, that drove McReynolds to the ropes. In the second round however, McReynolds felled his opponent for the count of two, and the third round proved to be a give and take slug fest in which both fighters tied each other up considerably. Martin held his own fairly well delivering several hard, quick rights past McReynolds guard in the fourth, but the Negro champion retaliated in kind, matching the Peorian blow for blow.

Eberhardt Outpunched

In the semi-windup bout in the 155 pound class Vince Eberhardt of Sterling was defeated by J. Becker, also of Peoria. Becker carried the fight to Eberhardt in the opening round, the latter apparently wilting under a volley of savage rights and lefts to the face. With his nose and ears both bleeding, however, Eberhardt carried his opponent in the second until he could clear his head, and managed to stay on his feet the entire bout. Becker hopped on him with a flurry of blows in a rushing attack near the close of the third frame, but Eberhardt caught him with a solid punch to the jaw that snapped his head back. The bout was evenly divided in the fourth round, Eberhardt showing considerable more spunk than he displayed in the preceding rounds, and in the fifth the give and take battle continued, but Becker was awarded the decision by the judges.

The opening bout between Morris Stunkel, Rochelle and Paul Hess, Dixon, was captured by Stunkel who exhibited a devastating left followed by a hard, jarring right hook that had Hess groggy. This bout was in the 147 pound class. Newberry of Princeton met defeat at the hands of McCallum of DeKalb in the 147 pound class also, when the latter landed a questionably low punch in the second round that knocked his opponent to the floor for the ten count. The decision was deferred until later in the evening until judges could decide whether or not the blow was a foul. It proved to be a legitimate punch, and the decision was awarded the DeKalb fighter.

Showed Clubbing Right

Dan McGrew, Dixon State Hospital boxer in the 150 pound division, unleashed a clubbing right punch against Nelson of Peoria, but the latter after taking considerable punishment from the Dixon fighter in the first round, plodded after his opponent frequently cornering him, and warding off McGrew's most dangerous attack. He won the succeeding rounds of the three round bout after solving McGrew's attack, and tired out the Negro welterweight, winning a decision.

'Killer' Hess, Woosung and Dixon

On 170 pounder blasted a technical knockout over Izzy Allen, Peoria Negro, who was unable to stand the devastating right upper cut of the local man. Hess felled the Negro for the six count in the second round and in the third sent him to the canvas twice for the count of nine. The referee stopped the fight.

In the 120 pound class perhaps the fastest and cleanest fight of the evening was staged. Andrew Medina, Peoria, revealed astonishing ability to "take it" in a savage aggressive mix with Bernard Stunkel, Rochelle blonde featherweight. After darting at each other in the first like two insects, in which the men delivered several wild swings Stunkel rained a bombardment of lefts and rights to the chin of his opponent driving him against the ropes and snapping his head back like a punching bag with each volley. The latter appeared to absorb it nonchalantly however, and stayed on his feet the entire round fighting gamely against his superior foe.

The bouts were officiated by Jack Sharkey, Tim Sullivan and Cal C. Tyler were timers, and Joe Sharkey and James Bales, judges.

EASTERN TEAMS SEEK REGATTA CHAMPIONSHIP

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. In Harvard Varsity Bout

Annapolis, Md., May 25 —(AP)—The crews of Navy, Penn and Harvard were ready to battle for the eastern sprint championship in the Adams Cup Regatta on the Severn today.

Navy and Penn, both unbeaten, were favored over Harvard to win the 1 3/4 mile pull for the trophy offered by former Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams.

The varsity race, which will informally determine sprint honors in the East, was scheduled to start at 3 P. M. (CST) after the freshman and junior varsity events.

Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., pulls the No. 2 oar in the Crimson junior boat.

Preparations were made to handle an anticipated large crowd including, beside the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, many high naval officials, congressmen and cabinet officers.

Navy won the Adams Cup in 1933 the first year it was offered. Pennsylvania took it last year.

The nearest thing to the dreaded injury came when Sammy Byrd slammed into the center field wall in taking Dolph Camilli's drive in the sixth but he got right back into action.

The night-game mound performances coming from teams that haven't seen any great amount of good hurling this season overshadowed some of the feats performed.

FIRST BASEBALL GAME UNDER BIG LIGHTS SUCCESS

Cincinnati Reds Downed Phillies 2 to 1 in Inaugural Game

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr. (Associated Press Sports Writer)

The first night baseball game in major league history was written down today as a great success.

But there still remained the business of checking up on how many of the 20,422 cash customers who turned out at Cincinnati last night to see the $50,000 floodlighting system turned on by President Roosevelt in Washington, a great preliminary display of fireworks, a considerable gathering of notables and, incidentally, a 2 to 1 victory for the Reds over the Phillies would pay to come back some other night.

The whole question of baseball after dark in the big leagues seems to hinge upon that matter. The attendance at that "experimental" game appeared to justify the cash outlay and to put to rest and fears that players might be injured because of the strange playing conditions. The chilly weather which caused a day's postponement of the clash undoubtedly held down last night's attendance and no one apparently suffered except the batters who could collect only ten hits all told.

Gor Four Hits
The Reds got only four blows off Joe Bowman and Jim Bivin, who pitched the eighth inning, but they made them count more than Philadelphia's six off Paul Derringer. Billy Myers' double and two infield outs in the first inning produced a run and another in the fourth when Billy Sullivan and Harlan Pool connected for singles and the former scored while Bill Campbell was being tossed out. Singles by Al Todd and Mickey Haslin and a force-out produced the lone Philly run in the fifth.

The nearest thing to the dreaded injury came when Sammy Byrd slammed into the center field wall in taking Dolph Camilli's drive in the sixth but he got right back into action.

The night-game mound performances coming from teams that haven't seen any great amount of good hurling this season overshadowed some of the feats performed.

in ordinary daylight. Among these were Hal Schumacher's four hit shutout of the Cubs and the Giants' terrific clouting behind it that produced a 13 to 0 victory and Buck Newsom's feat of blanking the league-leading White Sox with five blows to win his first start for the Senators 10 to 0.

Cubs Felt To Third
The Cub defeat, charged against Roy Henshaw, the first left hander to lose to New York this year, dropped them back into third place behind Brooklyn which hammered Dizzy Dean and defeated the Cardinals 5 to 3 while Les Munns pitched three hit ball in seven innings of relief work. Pittsburgh's Pirates captured the other National League encounter from Boston, 7 to 6, despite Rupert Thompson's ninth inning homer with the bases crowded.

Two changes in the American League standing were recorded as the Indians, thoroughly shaken up by the release of Glen Myatt and the suspension of Willie Kamm, lined out 18 hits to bow over the Athletics 12 to 2 while the cellar dwelling Browns upset the Yankees 6 to 3 on a pair of late homers by Ray Pepper and Jack Burns. That put the Indians back into second place.

After a day in the second division, the Red Sox returned to fourth place, ending Detroit's five-game winning streak with an 8 to 4 triumph behind Lefty Grove.

Washington, May 25 —(AP)—Upwards of 20,000 spectators were expected to travel out to Washington Park today to greet the inauguration of horse racing in Chicago this year.

An excellent program, featured by the $5,000 added Chicago Handicap, which attracted 21 of the fleetest sprinters of the turf, was billed with a fast track in prospect. Wise Daughter, fleet offspring of Wise Counselor from the stable of Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago, was the favorite in the feature print over six furlongs, although it was a wide open race.

Another important race was scheduled, the Drexel Purse at a mile. Seven good three year olds were entered, with Col. E. R. Bradley's Black Helen the heavy favorite. The race was worth $1,200. Six other races, worth $1,000 each, were on the program.

Form players wound up with a big headache and an empty purse at the closing of Aurora Exposition Park yesterday when Sun Portland, owned by Mrs. Silas Mason of New York ran a spectacular race to win the Illinois Derby by a neck over Roman Soldier, the three to ten favorite.

Summer Sweethearts

BEGIN HERE TODAY

KATHARINE STRYKER, daughter of wealthy VICTOR STRYKER, is deeply attracted by MICHAEL HEATHER, who runs a riding school. Katharine is discontented and restless under her stepmother's rule. Thrown from a horse, she is taken to the home of VIOLET MERRILL, who once was in love with Katharine's father. Violet is drawn to the girl and they become friends.

DR. JOHN KAYE, just back from Europe, visits the Strykers.

ZOE PARKER, Katharine's closest friend, is in love with GIBBS LARKIN, and persists in seeing him in spite of her parents' objections. Katharine asks her to help her escape from the clasp of Gibbs.

They take Zoe to a night club which has opened nearby. Gibbs is there with a beautiful woman.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XV

ZOE, absorbed in the mirror of her compact, an expensive and lovely trifle, did not catch sight of Gibbs Larkin for another minute.

When she did, she took it "like a little soldier." John Kaye said later. Her color came up. The ghost of a gasp rose to her lips and was instantly suppressed.

Gibbs had followed the tall, sinuous young woman in black net to a table at the very edge of the pool. He was, plainly, absorbed in the conversation. The young woman had the candidly revealed figure of a show girl. Her black hair, growing in a bold widow's peak, was drawn demurely back from a white forehead. Jewels dangled from her ears and her bare arms were gleaming with narrow bracelets.

Zoe stared. Quite frankly and childishly she stared, as if in a state of horror. Gibbs' sleek head bent toward his companion; he hung, as if enraptured, on her every word.

Katharine wanted to turn her eyes away. The naked misery in Zoe's face was terrible. John must have heard something. He must have known, or at least believed, that Gibbs could be found here! How extraordinary was this quiet man with the easy voice and the supple supple hands! She marveled at him.

A waiter came up and John said something to him in a low voice and he went away.

Zoe said, "I think I must be getting back."

That was all. There was dignity in her bearing, and pride, too.

"Just as you say," said John. "You see it once and you've seen it all."

Gibbs, with his back turned, was somehow made aware of the attention of the little group. Perhaps the young woman in the extravagantly cut black dress had told him that three people at a nearby table were gazing at him.

He whirled, his rather heavy body pivoting at the waist. His eyes met Zoe's. There was a sickening moment in which Katharine felt the utter folly and uselessness of attempting further conversation. Zoe had risen to her feet and John with her. In mid-flight Gibbs met her.

"Hello, hello, hello!" But you could see the discomfort behind that insouciant pose.

Zoe did not answer. She was, thought Katharine, a little like a doe caught in a thicket—they had seen one last fall in the mountains. Zoe's eyes had the same stricken look.

"Well, who would have thought of finding you here?" Gibbs breezed on, determined to brazen the thing out.

ZOE could not find her voice. Katharine said, "We were only just going."

"Ah, so soon?" burbled Gibbs. "But it's a very jolly place, don't you think? Such amusing people..."

"Very!" cried Zoe. "Very amusing."

Dr. Kaye took her arm. It wouldn't do to have her break here. A scene at the Blue Sky Bath Club would be material for the Broadway columnists who haunted such meeting places in the summertime.

"You take your hands off my girl," Gibbs said, very low. And now Katharine was sure he had been drinking. His eyes had a glazed, unnatural look; his voice picked up the words and laid them down again, gingerly, with a false dignity. Gibbs was drunk!

Dr. Kaye looked around swiftly. There were only a few people in sight—one or two negligent waiters with hard, dark, foxy faces, and several parties of two who seemed completely absorbed in each other. The woman in black watched the little scene with an odd air of detachment.

"Don't start anything here Larkin," John Kaye said coldly. "If you want a good dusting down, come outside."

Gibbs lurched forward. "You'll settle with me here and now," he cried. The diners looked up. Interestingly, whirling their glasses on thin stems. The girl in black net gave an almost unobserved signal to a waiter. It all happened so quickly that Katharine could scarcely credit it when the two girls were again on the graveled walk outside, with the doctor hatless beside them.

"You knocked him down Johnny!"

"I only brushed him aside," said Dr. Kaye. He slipped and fell..."

"He's not hurt?"

"I'm sure he isn't. Let's get along. I don't want you girls mixed up in this."

THEY were in the car; unheeding, they were whirling down the Post Road again. Zoe slumped between them, limp and unprotesting.

"We'll drop you at home, Johnny," Katharine said. "I'll stop with Zoe at her house. Tell Bertine she's not feeling well."

"I don't need anyone," Zoe protested. She was deadly pale.

"Don't let Bertine telephone her mother," Katharine went on swiftly. "She's quite likely to unless you stop her."

"I'll fix it," Dr. Kaye looked grim.

He helped them out at the Parker driveway. He waved his hand and left them, to walk the few hundred yards of roadway that separated them from the Stryker house. A clock in the convent tower boomed the half hour.

"He's just in time for dinner," Katharine said, on a note of systematic laughter. She was terribly shaken. Zoe, like a doll on strings like an automatic figure, allowed herself to be led to the house. The maid, Gerda, came to the door leading to the terrace, which was locked.

"Oh, Miss Zoe! I thought you said you weren't to be here for dinner."

"She wasn't, Gerda, but I think she's changed her plans. Will you bring some tea up to her room?"

"I don't want anything," Zoe said listlessly.

The broad halls were in twilight as the two girls ascended the stairs. Here and there a bar of late sunshine broke through the iron grilles appearing at intervals in the walls. Zoe's room was shuttered and cool. Silver Venetian blinds made a glimmering dusk here. In one swift glance Katharine saw the overnight bag at the foot of the bed. Zoe thrust it aside and flung herself across the taffeta coverlet, sobbing.

"I wish I were dead!"

"No, you don't. What a silly thing to say!" But Katharine felt the hopelessness, the utter futility of any argument.

Zoe sat up, rubbing her eyes with a childish gesture. "But I do! Oh, you don't know—"

SHE burst into loud weeping—again, face downward on the coverlet.

"I—I was going to marry him," she sobbed. "He said he hadn't seen her for months—"

"That girl in Swampscott?"

Zoe raised a streaked and distorted face. "No, no, of course not! She didn't really matter. She was just—nothing at all. But the girl we saw tonight—" Zoe clenched her hands into fists. "I hate her," she grated. "I'd like to tear her into bits!"

"Do you know who she is?"

Zoe fairly snorted in contempt. "Of course I do. If you mean to say you don't? What a little white lily you are!"

Katharine flushed.

"Oh, I'm sorry," Zoe said hurriedly. "I didn't mean to be so nasty. But, oh, if you knew what I've been through! I don't care what happens to me now—"

She ground her fists into her eyes.

"She's a singer," she went on after a moment. "Cissy Malotte. Surely you've heard of her—"

Katharine remembered now. The girl who was supposed to have had a gangster lover, the girl Gibbs had known last year.

"Yes, I remember now," Zoe said. "Well, I knew about her. I thought it was just one of those things. I thought she was an older woman—wicked, fading, all that. But now I've seen her! Why, she's young! She's beautiful in a horrible way. And did you see the way he looked at her? Ahh—"

Zoe's sob rose almost to a shriek. "Hush, hush! You don't want the maids to hear you," said Katharine, distracted at this exhibition of undisguised suffering.

"I don't care who hears," Zoe cried fiercely. "It's all right for you. You're so calm and cool; you've never known what it is to feel this way—to hate anyone. You've never even been in love."

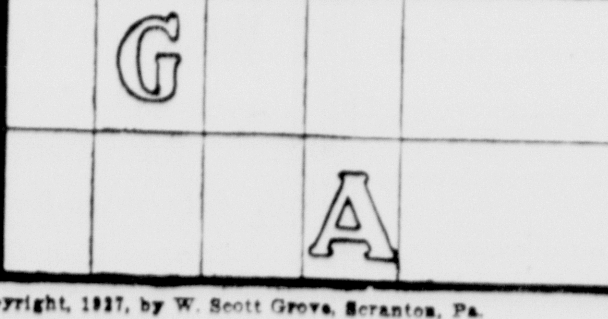

"Ah, haven't I?" thought Katharine. Aloud she said nothing. Zoe flung herself about wildly.

"I know what I'll do," she shrieked. "I'll kill myself! That will make him sorry for the way he's treated me."

High School Notes
(By Frank Holley and Earl Biekling.)

On every hand we see evidence of the complex life in which we are a part. Such complexity makes it necessary for the person who wishes to make a place for himself, to be acquainted with the problems of everyday life, and how to meet them. A few decades ago, a grade school education was sufficient for those who did not intend to undertake a white collar job, but now we find it increasingly necessary for all types of workers to have at their command, the knowledge gleaned from a high school education or better. The subjects taught in regular courses, supplemented by extra-curricular courses, afford the student of this generation a well-rounded education, which is vitally important to cope with modern problems. Besides the regular courses, these extra courses include dramatics, music, debate, athletics wherein a student may develop any talent that might be theirs. Most graduates of the 8th grade are hardly 15 years of age, and seldom are over 15, and do not possess sufficient ability to shift for themselves. None of them will go wrong in spending the next four years in high school.—Editorial.

Visitors Day was held Monday at the high school. Many of the 8th grade graduates were present, and they spent the day in seeing in the first elimination heat Ralph, on second to Packard of Rockford, and not much distance separated them. In his next heat the finish was so close that it took the judges quite a while to decide that Ralph was third, and thus could not compete in the finals. The school is proud of Ralph's achievements. Next year, his senior year, he should do even better.

Next Saturday the track team goes to Prophetstown for the invitational meet there. We expect to bring home some honors, for the team is in good condition, as is reflected in the results of the Green River Valley Conference meet here piling up a total of 60 points. Franklin Grove smothered their rivals in the Green River Valley Conference the seventh consecutive year. The Grovers won eight out of twelve first places and were successful in setting new records in the 100 and 200 yard dashes.

Ralph Hanson was Franklin's ace performer and high point man in the meet, scoring twenty-four points by winning the 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, the shot put, tied for first in the high jump and running as anchor man on the relay team Franklin Grove has its strongest track team in many years.

The results follow:
100 yard dash—Hanson (F); Ulrey (PP); Blodower (LC); Douglas (PP); Schoenholtz (S); Time 10.3 seconds. (New record).
220 yard dash—Hanson (FG); Wendel (FG); Lackwell (LC); Trowbridge (S); Cox (LC); Time 23 seconds. (New record).
440 yard dash—Trowbridge (S); Wendell (FG); Trowbridge (S); Mortenson (LC); Wood (PP); Time 60 seconds.

880 yard run—Gehrt (FG); Mortenson (LC); Trowbridge (S); Collins (PP); Donley (LC); Time 2:25.
1 mile run—Gehrt (FG); Flightmaster (PP); Cox (LC); Yocum (FG); McCoy (S); Time 5:35.
880 yard relay—Franklin Grove; Paw Paw; Steward; Lee Center; Compton. Time 1:40.

Franklin Grove received 60½ points; Paw Paw 46½; Steward 30½; Compton, 22½; Lee Center 22.
Tuesday morning a beautiful bronze cup awarded to the high school for winning the G. R. V. C. meet arrived. After everybody had admired it, it was placed with the other six cups the high school has won in track.

Woman's Club Entertains
Monday afternoon the Franklin Grove Woman's club and its guests enjoyed a most delightful May Tea in the Methodist church.
The affair was planned in honor of the Ashton Woman's club which has so royally entertained the women from our local club on several occasions, and twenty-five ladies from that city attended.
Miss Juanita McComb, a graduate in Fine Arts from the University of Nebraska, presented a program in clay modeling, chalk drawing, and picture construction in felt, which was most entertaining. By request, she gave several whistling solos with Mrs. Minnetta

Moore accompanying on the piano and a number of bird imitations.

Following the program a pleasant hour was spent in the church parlors where refreshments were served from a table attractively decorated with purple lilacs and tall white tapers, to the fifty ladies who were present. Mrs. Margaret Patterson, president of the club, poured with Mesdames Ruth Duncan, Eva Karper, Daisy Blocher, Della Gilbert and Ruth Hussey assisting.

As the ladies departed for their homes they felt that this was another Woman's Club meeting that would be long remembered.

Many meetings equally interesting have been enjoyed by this club during the past winter.

A meeting a short time ago which received little mention but which was most instructive as well as entertaining was held at the hospital home of Mrs. Drucilla Banker.

Miss Ingalls, instructor in Occupational Therapy at the State College at Dixon was the speaker of the afternoon and gave a talk replete with information. Many pieces of the completed work were exhibited which created a lively interest.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Mary Hanson, the hostess of the afternoon, and a good time in general was enjoyed by all.

During the business session it was decided to hold a benefit market which proved to be a decided success. $18 was netted from this food sale. The Woman's Club wishes to thank all those who helped in any way to carry out this project.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President Mrs. Margaret Patterson
First Vice President Mrs. Minnetta Moore
Second Vice President Mrs. Drucilla Banker

DAILY HEALTH

DIABETES AND LIVING STANDARDS

Study of the records of a large number of diabetes patients as well as on the prevalence of diabetes among policy holders of a leading life insurance company, suggests the existence of a causative relationship between high standards of living and the incidence of diabetes.

The subject of the improvement in the standard of living has a number of interesting phases. Thus there can be little doubt that the rise in the standard of living in most civilized countries has contributed materially to the improvement in the people's health and toward lowering their mortality. Particularly notable is the improvement in tuberculosis.

On the other hand, coincidental with this improvement in the standard of living there has been noted an increase in the incidence of diabetes.

Not all of the diabetes increase witnessed can be accounted for in this way. Unquestionably improvement in diagnostic methods and the increase in routine medical examinations have brought to light a large number of cases which heretofore would have remained undiagnosed. Another significant factor which contributes to the increased incidence of diabetes is the "advancing age" of our population. More persons now survive to reach an old age than formerly.

But even when taking into account all of these factors, there still remains evidence to suggest that the increasing ease of life contributes to the development of diabetes. The outstanding item in this consideration is overweight.

The development of diabetes is far commoner among those overweight than among persons of average weight or less. Of course, not all fat persons develop diabetes, and the relationship between the disease and obesity is by no means clearly defined.

Any modern refrigerator will furnish temperature.

2. Moisture

Ice refrigeration alone keeps your food moist eliminating loss of flavor by drying out. Closing the food up in containers eliminates ventilation making a bad matter worse.

3. Ventilation

Ice refrigerators keep your food from odor-tainting. The constantly circulating odor-laden air from your food is cleaned by the moist surface of the ice, cleaning and sweetening the whole interior of the refrigerator.

The amount and character of these odors and gases given off are clearly shown as the slime that accumulates in the ice refrigerator drain, or when defrosting an electric refrigerator.
